* Sec. 5. LEGISLATIVE INTENT RELATING TO CRIME VICTIMS' RIGHTS. (a) It is the intent of the legislature to increase crime victims' access to the criminal justice process, to improve communication between criminal justice agencies and crime victims, and to ensure that crime victims' legal rights are not denied. Crime victims in this state should be treated with dignity, respect, and fairness as guaranteed by the Constitution of the State of Alaska. The Department of Law, Department of Corrections, Department of Public Safety, and the division in the Department of Health and Social Services responsible for juvenile justice should continue to partner with the office of victims' rights to improve the criminal justice process for crime victims.

(b) One of the surest ways to affect each victim's sense of fairness and justice is through clear and consistent communication by agency staff to crime victims. Timely communication to crime victims helps to ensure victims' notice and opportunity to be heard at key stages of criminal investigations and prosecutions. Police officers and prosecutors, upon first contact with crime victims, are required by law to inform crime victims about the office of victims' rights. Law enforcement agencies, prosecutors, corrections agencies, social service agencies, and the courts should make every reasonable effort to ensure that victims' legal rights are preserved. Victims' privacy and dignity should be protected throughout the process. A timely and fair disposition of criminal charges promotes public trust, including victims' trust, in the criminal justice process. Timely, full, and prompt financial restitution to crime victims also provides crime victims with a tangible sense that the criminal justice system has acted to restore the victim.
